Introduction

Introduction

The mission of the Massachusetts Commission on the Status of Women (MCSW) is to advance women towards full equality in all areas of life and to promote rights and opportunities for all women. The Commission exists to provide a permanent, effective voice for women across Massachusetts.

The Commission believes it is imperative that more women participate in the policy and decision-making processes of their state and local governments to ensure that the government is responsive to women's needs. In addition to many other charges, the Commission is empowered to identify and recommend qualified women for positions at all levels of state government, including boards and commissions. State boards and commissions are a significant component of state government, and their members are able to use their experiences and perspectives to influence public policy.

To help achieve this goal of increased women's participation in government, the Commission created this directory in 2003. Now in its third printing, "How to Get Appointed to State Boards and Commissions: A Directory" provides a listing of many of the Massachusetts State Boards and Commissions and their contact information. The Commission hopes that the publication and wide distribution of this directory will inform women and encourage them to seek appointments and assume an active role in their communities and state. Their participation will ultimately increase the number of qualified female candidates for elected office and further the accountability of state government in fulfilling its responsibility to address women's issues and concerns.

History of the Massachusetts Commission on the Status of Women

The Massachusetts Commission on the Status of Women was created in May 1998 under Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 3 Section 66, inspired by the United Nations' Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing. The Beijing Platform for Action, which recommended that state and federal governments support councils, commissions, networks, and other organizations that focus on women's issues, emerged from the conference. Specifically, the Platform directed state governments to "form and adequately fund Women's Commissions in all states and territories where they do not already exist."

The Commission, an independent state agency, consists of 19 women that are appointed by the MCSW appointing authorities, which include the Governor, the Speaker of the House, the Senate President and the Massachusetts Caucus of Women Legislators. These women are drawn from diverse racial, ethnic, religious, age, sexual orientation and socio-economic backgrounds. The MCSW is empowered to study, review and report on the status of women in the Commonwealth; advise executive and legislative bodies on the effect of proposed legislation on women; inform leaders of business, education, healthcare, the media, and state and local governments on issues pertaining to women; provide referrals and serve as a resource of information for Massachusetts; serve as a liaison between government and private interest groups concerned with issues affecting women; and promote and facilitate collaboration among local women's commissions and among women's organizations in the state.

The Commission works with the state government and the public in its efforts to promote women's equality. It works closely with its appointing authorities and state legislators to draft, promote and encourage the passage of legislation that positively affects the women and families of Massachusetts. The MCSW organizes and hosts multiple public hearings every year in order to receive input from women across the state. In addition, the Commission annually honors women who have "Done the Thing that they Thought Couldn't be Done" for the women of Massachusetts with its Eleanor Roosevelt Unsung Heroine Award Luncheon.

How to Use the Directory

We hope this directory will help to guide you in your early stages of seeking an appointment to a state board or commission. The boards and commissions are listed alphabetically by name, excluding prefixes of Massachusetts, State, Board, Commission or Council.* Each listing contains the following information for the given board or commission: Web site (if one exists), appointing authority, number of appointed positions, enabling legislation, contact information and the agency overseeing the board or commission. The oversight agency does not necessarily have authority over the respective board or commission, but is included to help provide a sense of the board or commission's location within the state government. In many cases, two agencies are listed for one board or commission; the first is the more immediate agency and the second is the larger agency within which it falls. The abbreviations used in the directory are listed at the end of the directory. We have also provided contact information for the various appointing authorities and other important state agencies.

Getting Started

You can find information about a board or commission by visiting its Web site or reading its enabling legislation. The enabling legislation provides an overview of the purpose of the board or commission and the duties of its members. Use the following two Web sites to look up the enabling legislation for Massachusetts General Laws (MGL) and executive orders (EO), respectively:

- <http://www.mass.gov//legis/laws/mgl/#-#.htm> (plug the number of the MGL into the "#-#," or go to the Web site and search for a particular piece of legislation)

* For example, the MCSW is listed as "Status of Women, Massachusetts Commission on the."

 For example, the Board of Registration of Architects is overseen by the Division of Professional Licensure (DPL), which falls under the umbrella agency the Office of Consumer Affairs and Business Regulation (OCABR).

- <http://www.lawlib.state.ma.us/execorders.html>

You may also want to contact the office of the board or commission to request additional information or inquire about any meetings that you may attend. It may also be possible to contact present commissioners or board members in order to get a better sense of what is involved in the work of the organization.

While we have attempted to make this directory as complete as possible, it is not exhaustive and changes to boards and commissions are ongoing and inevitable. We recommend visiting the Governor's Boards and Commissions Web site, where you can view boards and commissions that currently have openings and apply for them online.

- <http://govappt.state.ma.us>

In addition, you may wish to contact the state agencies whose work you are interested in to see if they have other boards or commissions that are not listed in this directory. You might also consider contacting your local town or city government to inquire about local boards and commissions. For basic local government contacts, please go to the Massachusetts Election Division's Web site (<http://www.sec.state.ma.us/ele/eleclk/clkidx.htm>).

Getting Appointed

If you are interested in being appointed to a state commission or board, contact your state representative or senator for a written or verbal recommendation that can be sent to the appointing authority, or contact the appointing authority directly to express your interest in the board or commission of your choice. If you are interested in serving on a Board of Trustees for a state or community college, contact the Public Education Nominating Council through the Department of Education; the Council makes recommendations to the Governor about appointive positions in the education sector. The following section provides contact information for all the appointing authorities listed.

Appointment requirements vary and depend upon the organization. Certain boards and commissions may have a specific criterion for appointments, such as special knowledge of an issue, while others may not. It is always best to contact the board or commission for which you are interested in to clarify the requirements for being appointed prior to applying for a position.

Please note, the appointment process may take a long time. Sometimes the organization may be fully appointed, or you may be competing with several candidates for an appointment. It is always best to not get discouraged and to have several options in mind.

Most state boards and commissions do not provide compensation for participation. However, some organizations may reimburse travel expenses, provide a small stipend or serve an occasional meal during a meeting.

The MCSW hopes you find this directory useful and that you will use it to learn more about our state boards and commissions. Most importantly, the MCSW hopes you become involved in state government because every voice can make a difference.

Good Luck! If there is any way the MCSW can assist you in this process, do not hesitate to contact us at 617-626-6520.
